Location Expertise

Having sold throughout NYC for 27 years, I have become a location expert. This expertise has been developed through exploration, dedicated research, comprehension of local market dynamics and real time hands-on experience.

When working with both buyers and sellers, my knowledge of neighborhood demographics, amenities and transportation allows me to properly guide my clients.

Having sold in every neighborhood and every type of building, I can speak to how a specific location can significantly impact the value and/or desirability of a property.
